

Grothouse New AnvilTM Wood Surfaces Featured in House Beautiful's 2016 Kitchen of the Year #KOTY2016 AnvilTM Gilded Metal Walnut Kitchen Table, Bar Countertop and Floating Shelves bring a sophisticated beauty to the space

March 2016 (Germansville, PA) – Grothouse is proud to announce that their custom wood surfaces will once again be featured in the House Beautiful Kitchen of the Year. This marks the fourth Kitchen of the Year for the Lehigh Valley based custom wood surfaces manufacturer. This year's kitchen will be designed by the talented Matthew Quinn.

Grothouse will be introducing their exclusive new AnvilTM line of metal gilded wood surfaces at the launch of this year's Kitchen of the Year – the first residential installation of the line. AnvilTM is a revolutionary new product that employs masterful finishing techniques to coat wooden countertops in a finish of real metal particles. The result is a sophisticated surface that imitates metal in look and function without the expense or inflexibility of solid or sheet metal surfaces. AnvilTM metal gilded wood surfaces are available in 8 metal coatings and can be finished with any Grothouse edge profile.

For this year's Kitchen, Grothouse crafted a custom 48" round Walnut kitchen table banded with an AnvilTM Metal Edge in Magnum color, which has a brass appearance. The table is sealed with Grothouse exclusive Durata® waterproof permanent Finish in Matte sheen for a natural look.

Grothouse will also provide a Rift Cut White Oak bar countertop and floating shelves constructed of a smooth composite substrate. Both are gilded with Argentum Metal, which has a nickel silver appearance and will be sealed with Grothouse exclusive Durata® waterproof permanent finish in satin sheen.
